Eyes on Staghorn Takes Shape

At Staghorn it takes residents who care that make us more than just a place to live. These are people that are actively working on your behalf behind the scenes to make our neighborhood a better place to live. One way to care for each other is through the Eyes on Staghorn program.

Possible Neighborhood Sign

What is Eyes on Staghorn? Eyes on Staghorn is a Neighborhood Watch program that focuses on providing a way for community residents to be vigilant by reporting things they believe need to be addressed on their street.

Who is Involved in the Program? There is a resident on your street that keeps a watch out for you and reports things to Mark Harrell, SPEHOA Security Chair.

What do They Report? Eyes on Staghorn volunteers recognize potential problem that might make you vulnerable to crime or property damage.

Volunteers can report garage doors being left open on a regular basis which is a security hazard. They may notice no lights on in your home. They will not go onto your property, just observe things from the street.

They also observe things happening around you like street lights that are out, strange cars parked near your property or branches leaning toward your driveway or street.

How do I Join Eyes on Staghorn? Eyes on Staghorn has representatives for most streets but needs volunteers of Tall Timber, Brockton Road and Waterworks Road. You can contact Mark Harrell at 404-444-5438 to volunteer.

What Can You Do to Protect Yourself?

Remember, this program is not a substitute for you taking full responsibility for your own personal security. There are some things that you can do to protect your individual safety.

- Leave a light turned on using a timer at night to ward off intruders;
- Set up a routine to make sure all doors and windows are locked at night;
- Let your neighbors know when you expect to be out of town;
- Ask neighbors to pick up unexpected deliveries when you are on vacation;
- Keep your garage door closed when it is not in use;
- Hang curtains or install blinds to block the view into your home;
- Report strange vehicles parked near your home;
- Make sure your kids don't overshare your plans on social media.

Please Pay Your Staghorn Dues

A new Staghorn resident commented to me at the recent Homeowners Meeting that he couldn't believe how much we offered for just $300. I share that view as do many of you.
